Firemen's Entertainment and Dance

On Monday night the Gleichen Fire Brigade put on an entertainment acknowledged to be the best ever staged in Gleichen. The Managing Musical Co. proved one of exceptional merit and all who availed themselves of the opportunity of hearing them are most willing to admit they had the worth of their money. Every one of the nine members of the company proved themselves musicians of the highest art and the comedy worked into the entertainment fitted in to a nicety, making up just the variety required for towns of this population. The dance following the entertainment was enjoyed by a good crowd and the four ladies who comprised the orchestra provided music rarely equalled in Gleichen. There was however, one little thing to complain of and that was that quite a number of people were missing, who may at any moment need the assistance of the fire boys, which accounts for the Brigade going about $18 short of meeting their expenses. However it is learned since that Mr. Ramsay and Ald. Larkin and Leggat have acknowledged their inability to attend by sending in cheques that far exceed the price the boys charged for admission. Let us hope that others will yet show their appreciation of Brigade's efforts in a substantial manner.

"MADE IN GLEICHEN BAGO"

Monday, May 6, Mr. C. S. Bartsch, of the Pacific Cold Storage Company, presented the CALL with a fine large piece of bacon, explaining that it was "made in Gleichen Bago" and that it was on sale at the company's meat market. Mr. Bartsch said he thought it was alright, but he was anxious that the CALL and everyone else should try it and judge for themselves. The CALL man did try it and has not the slightest hesitation in advising others to do likewise. In fact it is far in advance of any tasted for a long time, despite the fact that the manager stated that this being the first it was only to be expected that they would be able to improve on it as work proceeded. The Pacific Cold Storage has just completed the first section of its meat curing and packing plant, situated just west of town, with the most modern devices known and from now on will be prepared to supply the entire district. This bacon is the first put on the market but large quantities of hams and other meats are now being cured and will be ready for sale very soon. The plant is destined to become one of the first in the west.

Odd Drowning Fatality

A most distressing and terrible accident was witnessed by over forty people about five o'clock Sunday afternoon, including two members of the CALL staff, at the Southern Alberta Land company's irrigation dam, which crosses the Bow river about twenty miles southwest of Gleichen, when George R. Ansell, a blacksmith's helper, employed by the company lost his life. He came from London, England, about eight months ago and was an expert swimmer, having frequently declared he could swim across the dam.

A party of ten from Gleichen were spending the day pleasantly at the dam and of the party, Messrs. M. Kelly, F. C. Gaulaur, G. W. Evans, D. McLeod and W. P. Evans were among the witnesses of the terrible catastrophe.

At this point the dam is about a mile long but where the main river overflows there is a solid concrete wall about 600 feet long and 16 feet high. On the south side of the river, there is quite an encampment of workmen, some of them accompanied by their wives and families. To carry on the work on the north side a flat-bottomed boat has been used above the dam to bring the men to and fro.

The unfortunate man had crossed with a comrade to catch some of the big fish, but firing of the sport paddled back. Later he decided to return for his friend and it is thought lost his life. George Evans was standing on a bar about 50 yards below the dam when he caught sight of the boat above the dam drifting down stream sideways. As it neared the dam the boat swung around and just as the bow reached the top he saw a man raise up in it and plunge into the water, while the boat floated over and with a lurch landed below right side up.

The man appeared to do his best to swim up stream, but in an instant the water swept him to the edge of the dam, where all could plainly see him pushing himself back with his hands and working towards the north side of the river, but the force of the water seemed to keep forcing him upwards still he fought frantically and bravely for his life, while only once was his voice heard above the roaring waters with the word "Help", which was immediately repeated on both sides of the river.

After fully five minutes of awful suspense his legs seemed to be forced to the top of the water, no doubt numbed by the cold water. Still the brave fellow held on or pushed against the dam until the rapid water threw his legs into the air and he was forced to turn a complete somersault, his face and the top of his head striking the hard cement as he turned. In falling his legs and arms flew out but he landed feet first, at the bottom of the falls, where the water appeared to strike his back and force him into the foaming waters head-first, after which he was seen no more.

Meantime George Evans and the deceased's friend waded out into the river in the hopes of catching him should he be carried down the stream, but all they saw was his hat. On both sides of the river men began to throw their clothing with the intention of swimming to the rescue of the man, but seeing the utter uselessness of attempting such a task were obliged to abandon any such effort, and it was indeed a trying and heart-rending scene to see the women and children and the strong men in the river and on the banks, crying and shouting, but unable to even attempt to rescue the poor fellow.

A slight fall of the beautiful Tuesday night, followed by sleet and rain yesterday morning was just the weather our farmers revelled in. The warm sun and high winds of the previous days made them think of a dry season and irrigation.

Unless a Chinaman has grandchildren he is not permitted to wear whiskers. The barbers syndicate must have great power in the Flowery kingdom.

BEWARE OF HOG CHOLERA

It is learned on good authority that a number of carloads of hogs shipped from the east to points on the McLeod railway branch from Calgary have been destroyed by order of the inspector at Calgary on account of cholera and despite his efforts a few cases have been introduced into the southern country. It seems that in the east the disease is quite prevalent, and it may be wise for our farmers to take every precaution in purchasing hogs till the disease is eradicated. So far, Alberta has been fairly free from such diseases, owing, no doubt, to the vigilance of the inspectors, and as our farmers can do much in keeping this province clear of the cholera, one and all should not fail to do their utmost in this respect.

ABOUT THE LIMIT

"Say", remarked Tom to his pal in his office yesterday, "that's the limit."

"What's wrong now?" queried Bill.

"Well, I happened into the post office at Gleichen today and a certain party came in and asked for a money order in favor of one of our mail order houses for the modest amount of $15. I regained consciousness when I went to my ledger and found the said party on my books to the amount of only $700. Talk about nerve—'Sly, Bill, don't take on like that. You must remember that in this country they tell us that you have to be 75 per cent nerve to make her go."

"Tom!" said Bill meekly, slightly recovering. "I thought I was the only one stung, but you've got me beat by some. I really thought I was the easiest on the market. I feel better now, but Tom, where has our last year's profit evaporated?"

If anyone can beat this $150.00 nerve kindly report, but remember this is a true story.

Big Three Ring Wild Animal Show Coming

Contracting Agent, W. K. Poek, arrived in town Tuesday arranging for the appearance of Al G. Barnes' Wild Animal Circus that will give two performances here Thursday, June 5th.

In answer to numerous questions by the reporter of the CALL he said:

"It is with great pleasure and pride that I offer the following remarks in connection with our appearance in your town. It is not my purpose enlarge upon the manifold features that we present in the Barnes Show, but rather to emphasize the belief that its maintenance to public favor is due very largely to the support accorded us by the more discriminating element in society, the element that is partial to good clean amusement. The best years of Barnes' life have been devoted to the education of wild and domestic animals from all parts of the known world. I think I may say his efforts have been attended with a fair amount of success, as today he has the greatest and most sensational animal show in America. Early in his career he became convinced that a tented show of high class animals presented in a way to please refined audiences would be given liberal financial support, an entertainment that clean wholesome and devoid of reprehensible features. The Barnes show is a western organization, and aims to establish itself in the minds of the public in so favorable a manner that it is an annual visit may be regarded as a welcome event. Everybody should see our novel street parade that takes place at 10:30 a.m.—a decided novelty in street parades."

Come and have a good time at the Bazaar on Friday. Heaps of fun during the day, heaps of fun during the evening, and then some.

Brosseau Bros. have moved their ice cream parlors from the Open House to the rooms at the west end of the Palace Hotel Block on Railway Street, where they have a much better stand and invite all to visit them.

Town Council

Last Friday evening the business of the Town Council was transacted in less than one hour and a half, yet considerable business was accomplished.

Mayor Bray occupied his usual position at the head of the table, but there was present only Aldermen Larkin, Leggat and McKay.

The form of reading and passing the minutes of the last meeting being duly executed the following minutes appear on the book.

Ald. Leggat and McKay that I. Burr's letter re leasing part of the cemetery ground be referred to the Public Works committee.

Ald. McKay and Larkin; "That the building of sidewalks stand over until such time as the town is in a financial position to go ahead with the work."

Ald. Leggat and Larkin; "That the first and second reading of By-law No. 47 be passed. (By-law to raise $5000 to complete the Water and Sewerage Works.)"

Ald. Leggat and Larkin; "That the following accounts be passed as approved by the Finance Committee: Western Municipal News $10, A. R. Yates $9.60, McKay Hardware $8.65, G. Laurie $3.40, H. Lee $2.25, J. T. Johnston $16.40, W. P. Evans $19.80, Alberta Government Telephone $29, Sing Lee $13.25, Gleichen Trading Co. $4.35 and F. C. Vigar $1.50."

Ald. Leggat and McKay; "That the first and second reading of By-law No. 49 be passed. (regarding fumigating houses and hotels.)"

The secretary was instructed to prepare a by-law prohibiting the erection of barbed-wire fences within the town limits and present it at the next meeting.

Ald. Leggat and McKay; "That By-law No. 48 be passed. (Said By-law permits the borrowing of $5000 from the Canadian Bank of Commerce.)"

Ald. McKay and Larkin; "That the secretary be instructed to order one dozen charges for the small chemical engine and sundry repairs."

Walter J. McHugh spent a day in Gleichen last week and when questioned said that at the H2 ranch, business was going along most satisfactorily. He found the horse business showing fair improvement. From the ranch a number had been recently disposed of, among them being fourteen to the Sarsse agency at Calgary, for use on the Sarsse Indian Reservation, several teams and a string of seven saddle horses to the Namaka Farm, while a deal was pending for the balance of the bunch offered this spring, comprising ninety head of young, well-broken horses. Mr. McHugh said that while he found money tighter than it had been for several years he found that by having the right stock and careful dealing, cash was obtainable and fair prices could be secured.

Don't miss the big Bazaar in the Opera House, on Friday afternoon and evening, the 9th inst. Everybody welcome.

While Secretary-Treasurer Whiteley was returning home from a Fire Brigade meeting the other night with his pockets filled with cheques just issued by order of the Brigade, in the darkness he saw just before him a bare-headed man crawling towards him on his hands and feet. The next moment the stooping figure rose and spoke. Thinking of the cheques and a $5 gold piece a his pocket the secretary-treasurer made a run for life to his home and immediately telephoned Chief Roberts to investigate an attempted hold-up. When the chief arrived at the point indicated search where he would no suspicious characters could be found. Next morning, however it was learned that our popular livery man, J. W. Barr, was on his way home and his hat blew off, while groping in the darkness for his headgear a man approached and he arose to request his assistance and the man faded in to the darkness. Jack has good feelings and no doubt the reason he had some reason for making a sudden bolt for home.

But what is the matter, Joan? Mrs. Durand asked again. It is so seldom you cry, she added with a touch of reproach as though it were not right for her daughter to give way to those tears in which she herself indulged on every possible opportunity, and I'm sure we are very nice and comfortable now.

Too comfortable, said Joan, and she looked with abhorrence round the pleasant room. What right have we—have we to be so comfortable? But there, she added, interrupting herself with a sudden conviction of the hopelessness of expecting either help or comfort from the weak woman at her side, it's no use talking, is it?

No, indeed, agreed Mrs. Durand with whom this was a pet phrase, and one which she seemed to consider implied that doing was as little good as talking; but Joan, what are you crying about? Not—not, her voice sank into a frightened whisper—Oh, Joan you have never been the same since you went to that house on the downs. You never told me what happened there, she added, looking uneasily at her daughter's forehead, on which was a fresh bruise, that Joan had trained her hair low to hide. And you never told me how that happened.

It does not matter, said Joan, I had a blow—at any rate, it was not my father.

But what happened? Mrs. Durand persisted. And why have you been so strange ever since you came back?

—and what—
Mrs. Durand had all the persistence of a weak and shallow nature, and Joan felt it necessary to change the subject.

See, darling, she said, lifting up the letter that had called from her her outbreak of distress. Here is an invitation—an invitation from Lady Martin to her ball.

Oh, how delightful, cried Mrs. Durand, beaming suddenly, and then her voice changed. But what can you wear she said. I am sure I have simply nothing—simply nothing, Joan.

Darling, do you think we ought to go? asked Joan slowly.

Oh, really, you are too provoking, exclaimed Mrs. Durand pettishly. Why not? I am sure it's very kind of Lady Martin. I dare say we can manage somehow—you are so clever at managing, Joan. There is the velvet that would cut up for me, and for a girl like you anything white and simple will do.

I wasn't thinking of what we were to wear, said Joan sadly.

Why—then—said Mrs. Durand amazed.

I was thinking, Joan answered slowly, that there is no reason why Lady Martin should invite us to her balls.

Oh, Mrs. Durand answered eagerly, but that will be that very nice Miss Rose and her niece—when they called—you remember, Joan.

Oh, I remember, said Joan bitterly, and why did they call?

You must know to know such a lot, complained Mrs. Durand. When you are my age, Joan, you will know it is best to take things as they come.

You know they talked about Mr. Wilton Mayne, and you know Mr. Wilton Mayne is a friend of your father's.

Joan shook her head doubtfully, and Mrs. Durand looked surprised.

But he is, she protested, at least your father always laughs when he talks of him—it makes me frightened sometimes to hear him—but they must be friends, or why should your father laugh so whenever he speaks of him?

I do not know, Joan answered slowly. But when my father laughs—then I know there is something dreadful going to happen.

RASH ON ARMS ALMOST UNBEARABLE

Looked Like Raw Meat. Itched and Burned So Badly Could Not Rest Night or Day. Arms Sore from Wrist to Elbow. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Cured.

Lower Blandford, Nova Scotia.—"Three years ago I became troubled with sore arms. It came as a rash. My arms looked like raw meat and itched and burned so badly I could not rest night or day. When I scratched they became awfully sore. As long as the weather was warm it didn't bother me so much, but in winter it was almost unbearable. My arms were sore from the wrist to the elbow.

I used several cures which were recommended to me but without any avail. I saw how I could get a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment which I did. I used the samples and found an improvement. Whenever I applied the Cuticura Ointment the itching and burning ceased. I got a full-sized box of Cuticura Soap and a cake of Cuticura Soap and only used about half when it disappeared and since then I have not been troubled. That was six months ago. Cuticura Soap and Ointment completely cured me." (Signed) Miss Elsie E. Zwick, Mar. 7, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough skin, itching, scaly scalp, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and chapped nails with painful finger-ends, that it is almost criminal not to use them. A single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Scott & Bowne, Toronto, Ontario 12-47

My dear, gasped Mrs. Durand, beginning to tremble violently.

Do you remember Frellgarth? asked Joan passionately. Do you remember how father asked me to make sketches of the west front—careful, detailed sketches? Do you remember how pleased he was when I showed him those sketches—he laughed as he took them away. Do you remember?

But Joan's voice trailed away into a silence of great horror and Mrs. Durand was pale as death, and she trembled till she could hardly speak.

Oh—Joan—she stammered with chattering teeth, I'm sure—why, it's very wicked of you to talk like that—if the diamonds were stolen the next week, I'm sure that had nothing to do with your father—Joan—

Perhaps not, said Joan wearily. I dare say I am wicked to have such thoughts—but you know the papers said the robbers appeared to have been furnished with an excellent sketch of the west front of the house?

Oh, Joan, whispered Mrs. Durand, why do you look so?—talk so?—you frighten me—Joan, it is very wrong and bad of you to frighten your own mother.

I am very sorry, darling, said Joan gently, but just lately my thoughts have seemed sometimes as though they were too much—as though I must say something—

And we must go to the ball, said Mrs. Durand, you know we must—or your father will be angry—you don't mind him, Joan—but I do—he frightens me—and I am not well, Joan—not well enough to be frightened.

Joan was too used to hearing this last complaint—fo, Mrs. Durand seldom let an hour pass without remarking that she was not very well—to heed it much. Her mind was busy, and looking up presently she said:

Mother, darling, shall we just go away?—go right away where father would never be able to find us. And as she spoke her own cheeks were pale, for though Mrs. Durand had just said that Joan did not fear her father, the girl knew better than the elder woman what good reason there was to dread him.

Just within the last few days, too, her fear of him had increased greatly, and putting up her hand she felt again the fresh bruise on her forehead. That was only a blow—nor had her father dealt it—but she asked herself with deliberation whether she were certain her very life would be safe if she again crossed her father's plans—at any rate if they ran away, it would be necessary to go a long way off and to hide very securely.

But if Joan were pale, Mrs. Durand looked on the point of swooning.

Oh, Joan, she panted. Oh, Joan—we couldn't—oh, he would follow us. Hush, mother, hush, said Joan, afraid of an attack of hysterics. Don't give way—well we will go to the ball. Only, mother, listen—if anything happens as it did after our visit to Frellgarth—then we must run away—we must be very, very brave and run right away.

She spoke with a quiet energy and determination that for the moment at least impressed Mrs. Durand.

Well, well, she said, fretfully acquiescent, only we should starve for ourselves—and he would follow us. Joan, tell me what has happened in the house on the downs?—you have been different ever since.

I do not know, Joan answered gloomily, my father is so cunning—he can twist, can turn anything—it is as always, doubts, fears, suspicions—ah, it is like a fog choking me and I do not know what to do.

Oh, Joan, murmured Mrs. Durand, crying again and trembling afresh at her daughter's words and tones. Oh, Joan, was it your father made that bludge?

No, answered Joan, he tried to save me that; if he had done it, I should have come back for you and we would have left him immediately—but he tried to save me, and so—oh, listen, there is his knock.

As she spoke there sounded at the front door a loud knocking that both of them recognized at once. Mrs. Durand sank down trembling on the nearest chair, and Joan's pale face took on a look of almost pale resolution. A moment later Mr. Durand himself entered the room. He was a tall, spare man with worn features, deep hollow eyes that were never at rest, and long gnarled hands that twisted and twined together incessantly.

His mouth was large, with thin lips on which he wore a constant smile; and this smile which he practised in order to make himself lovable, was in reality full of such cruelty and wickedness that it served as a warning to all who saw him. His hair was grey, and he was dressed rather shabbily and untidy, and owing to his foot having been injured in some accident, he walked with a pronounced limp.

As he entered, Joan gave him one long look, and then went and stood by the fireplace, while Mrs. Durand sat and trembled on her chair. Without speaking, Mr. Durand stood looking at them both, amused as he always was to notice his wife's agitation.

After a short pause he spoke abruptly: Have you had an invitation to Lady Martin's ball?

Mrs. Durand gave a little jump at the sound of his voice, and Joan, laying one hand on her breast to control the beating of her heart, said quietly: Yes. One came this morning.

When is it to be? he asked.

That is the card, said Joan, pointing to it.

She would have given much for strength and courage to proclaim open rebellion then and there, but under the cruel, keen eyes her father fastened on her, she felt her resolution faltering.

Moreover, she desired to be very cautious, for she was well persuaded that if action had to be taken it would be necessary to use both speed and secrecy unless their latter case was to be worse than their first.

Well, observed Mr. Durand, who had been looking at the card of invitation, that seems very nice. I call it very kind of Lady Martin, and for the life of him he could not prevent the mockery showing in his voice and in his eyes, though he saw well that Joan saw it, shuddered at it. You will need new things, I suppose, so I brought you some money, he added and he laid two or three bank notes down on the table.

Oh David, how kind of you, exclaimed Mrs. Durand with timid gratitude, and she glanced at Joan to see how this generosity affected her.

Ah, but I am always kind, said Mr. Durand with his wicked smile. Why, Joan you don't seem so grateful as your dear mother.

You know well, said Joan, looking at him steadily, what cause I have for gratitude towards you.

Ah said Mr. Durand, I suppose your little misadventure on the downs still rankles—yet, if it had not been for me, I know, Joan answered disdainfully. You tried to spare me a blow—are you certain there was nothing worse?

He gave her a quick and startled look full of equal threat and fear. It seemed if Joan were afraid of him, he was almost equally afraid of her. A keen observer might have guessed that from these two fears it was only too probable a tragedy might some day occur. This idea seemed now to come to both of them for they each looked away, and Mr. Durand said hurriedly:

Ah, well, I did not come to quarrel with you; I came rather to inform you that I have decided to increase your establishment. Hitherto you have had but one servant, Mrs. Crooke—a faithful, honest creature, not perhaps as efficient as she might be. But now I am going to provide you with a footman.

Dog's Remarkable Journey
London.—Some time ago the Rev. W. Y. Fullerton removed from Leicester to London. He brought with him a terrier, which was sent back to Leicester and then to Birmingham. A few days after its arrival there it disappeared and it was subsequently found by the police in the metropolis. The dog's condition was such that it is believed it found its way from Birmingham to London by road, a distance of 100 miles.

TRAINED NURSE
Remarks About "Nourishing Food"
"A physician's wife gave me a package of Grape-Nuts one day, with the remark that she was sure I would find the food very beneficial; both for my own use and for my patients. I was particularly attracted to the food, as at that time the weather was very hot and I appreciated the fact that Grape-Nuts requires no cooking.

"The food was deliciously crisp, and most inviting to the appetite. After making use of it twice a day for three or four weeks, I discovered that it was a most wonderful invigorator. I used to suffer greatly from exhaustion, headaches and depression of spirits. My work had been very trying at times and indigestion had set in.

"Now I am always well and ready for any amount of work, have an abundance of active energy, cheerfulness and mental poise. I have proved to my entire satisfaction that this change has been brought about by Grape-Nuts food.

"The fact that it is predigested is a very desirable feature. I have had many remarkable results in feeding Grape-Nuts to my patients, and I cannot speak too highly of the food. My friends constantly comment on the change in my appearance. I have gained 9 pounds since beginning the use of this food."

Cure Your Sore Throat Nerviline Will Do It

Blessed Relief Comes Quick, You Get Comfort, Every Pain Disappears

"Experience has taught me that the quickest way to cure a sore throat is with Nerviline," writes Mrs. Enoch P. Maclean. "My children always seem to get wet feet and stay out in the cold, and in consequence I have to keep a good household remedy handy. I rub in Nerviline almost every hour, give the children say twenty drops in hot sweetened water, and make them gargle with it. I have yet to see the cold this won't break up quickly."

From the La Harve Islands, N.S., Mrs. John Walker writes: "We have been using Nerviline for about nine years, and find it excellent. When we find any of us getting a cold we take Nerviline in hot water. It is a sure relief for it, and is also an instant relief for internal pains of any kind."

The remarkable pain-subduing power of Nerviline and its ability to check colds, influenza and sore throat is unequalled. Every home should have Nerviline handy on the shelf for sudden illness at night, like cramps or internal pains. A Fine Free Show
The little man had taken his wife and children to see the travelling show. After viewing all the sights that could be viewed for nothing, the entire family had up in front of a large booth, which advertised in huge letters on the outside: "The Grand Elk—The Wonder of the World."

On a small ledge in front of this booth paced the showman himself, entrancing all and sundry to come up and view. Presently his attention was attracted by the little man who gazed earnestly and wistfully at him.

"Ere, you, he called. Ain't yer comin' up? It's only sixpence. But the little man only shook his head.

Can't he whispered. It would cost me eleven shillings if I did. Yer see there's me an' my wife and twenty children."

What! exclaimed the showman, hoarse with incredulity, and pointing to the long line of earnest faces. Are all of them yours?

A nod was the little man's sole answer.

Good heavens! cried the man of the booth, as he bounded to its entrance. Don't yer move, guv'nor. Just stay where y're. I'm going to give the Great Elk a treat. I'm going to bring 'im out to 'ave a look at you.

A Dry Job

An Irishman sought employment as a diver. The firm he chanced to see a new man. And so on the following Monday morning Pat hid his smile for the first time in a diving helmet.

Now the job upon which the crew to which Pat had attached himself was working in comparatively shallow water, and Pat was provided with a pick and told to use it on a ledge below in a manner with which he was already familiar.

Down he went with his pick, and for about fifteen minutes nothing was heard from him. Then came a strong determined pull on the signal rope, indicating that Pat had a very decided wish to come to the top. The assistants pulled him hastily to the raft, and removed his helmet.

Take off the rest as it, said Pat. Yes, said Pat. O'll worrik no longer on a job where Oi can't spit on me hands.

HE SENT HIS "BEST" REMEDY
The young daughter of Mrs. T. S. Dougall, 523 Flora Avenue, Winnipeg, was arranging some of her doll's washing on a clothes rack, beside the stove, when she fell, and her hand came in contact with the hot stove. She sustained a serious burn, and her screams brought her mother quickly to the spot.

"I sent to the druggist for the best remedy he had for burns," she says, "and he sent back a box of Zam-Buk. He said that there was nothing to equal it. I applied this, and it soothed the pain so quickly that the child laughed through her tears. I bound up the hand in Zam-Buk and each day applied Zam-Buk frequently and liberally, until the burn was quite cured."

"The little one was soon able to go on with her play, and we had no trouble with her during the time the burn was being healed."

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at fifty cents a box; and Soap at 25c. a tablet. Post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations.

PELTED WITH ROTTEN APPLES
Rome Audience Resorts, in Theatre, Gross Insults to Their City

Rome.—A riot took place recently in the Costanza Theatre, Rome, recently, during a performance by the Futurists. For the past fortnight the "art" clique have made the theatre their headquarters and the leader Marinetti and his staff of poets, painters, sculptors and composers have distributed thousands of pamphlets highly offensive to Rome, which was compared with the lowest type of woman.

This has highly incensed the citizens, and an angry crowd assembled in the theatre, where a Futurist demonstration was to have been given.

When Maestro Pratella appeared to conduct a Futurist overture, the orchestra was bombarded with rotten apples, pineapples and oranges and several of the instruments were smashed. Undismayed by this hostile reception, Marinetti himself appeared on the stage to recite a Futurist poem, but he was shouted down.

The excitement rose to such a pitch that soon hand-to-hand fighting broke out between Futurists and demonstrators in all parts of the theatre. Several members of Rome's aristocracy were involved in the melees. The theatre was cleared and the fighting was continued in the streets. Ultimately the leaders of the Futurists, with their clothing torn, and faces bruised, sought refuge in a cafe.

INNOCENT MAN CONVICTED

Ruined Financially by Conviction He Leaves His Jail a Pauper
Berlin.—The Berliner Morgenpost has obtained from the pro-secution proceedings of the Reichstag details of a case resembling that of Adolf Beck, of England, who received two king's pardons and a grant of $25,000 for two wrongful convictions, under one of which he served the usual proportion of a sentence of seven years' penal servitude.

A Thuringian tannery owner named August Brehm was convicted in 1892 of burning down his factory for the purpose of securing the insurance money and is sentenced to five years' penal servitude. He was released after four years on account of his good behaviour. A year or two later he succeeded in establishing his innocence.

The petitions committee of the Reichstag, before whose attention Herr Brehm succeeded after fifteen years' effort in bringing his case, has now recommended the Government to revise the laws providing indemnification for persons wrongfully convicted.

Herr Brehm at the time of his conviction had an estate of $100,000. As soon as he was arrested his creditors took possession of his properties and he left prison a pauper. Attempts to secure an indemnity from the local authorities resulted in a judgment in his favor for $555.

Herr Brehm refused this amount. In the meantime the authorities seized half of it as the cost of the proceedings against him, and the balance was attached by his creditors. Herr Brehm is now sixty-five years of age.

PHONES FOR CONSTANTINOPLE

Invasion of Modern Ideas to Follow That of the Balkan Powers

Constantinople, Turkey.—'Hello! Are you 25 Pera? I want to speak to the sultan, please!'

The above will doubtless be one of the first calls put through in Constantinople this autumn, when a new revolution, every whit as far-reaching as the present political upheavals, will take place. The revolution will be no less than the installation of a complete telephone service in the Turkish capital for the first time in its venerable history.

The company responsible for the installation is the Societe Anonyme Ottomanese des Telephones de Constantinople. The backbone of the new Turkish company is formed by high officials and a large number of the staff of the National Telephone Company, of London, who with the taking over of the British telephone service by the government, sought and obtained new outlets for their energies.

Stanley J. Goddard, the former general superintendent of the National, for instance, is president of the Turkish company, while Douglas Watson, former district superintendent at Glasgow is director general and secretary.

Nearly twenty exchanges with considerably more than 5000 lines, will be opened in greater Constantinople, on either bank of the Bosphorus, including lines between Stamboul and Pera, beneath the Golden Horn, and connecting four of the Princess islands in the sea of Marmora with the mainland.

Two of the many difficulties confronting the telephone pioneers in Constantinople are as follows: Cosmopolitan speech of subscribers. French, Arabic or Turkish, Greek, Armenian, English and German are all spoken in Constantinople. This difficulty has been solved by sending a bevy of girl linguists from Constantinople to London, where they have been taught the telephone business.

FARMERS LOSE BY GRAIN MIXING

Facts Brought Out at Grain Investigation at Minneapolis Show That Elevator Companies are Large Gainers Through Being Allowed to Mix Wheat.—Scandals Attached to Investigation—Sample, Market and Mixing go Hand in Hand.

In the recent investigation by the legislature of Minnesota into methods of grain selling and handling some very interesting facts were brought out.

The committee appointed by the state senate had before it last Saturday the heads of the department of grain inspection and took sworn testimony of the chief clerk of the chief inspector of the state as well as that of the chief inspector. The close relation that exist between the sample market and the system of mixing by elevator companies, which is permitted by the laws of Minnesota was emphasized.

Tables were shown giving the number of bushels of wheat of various grades received at the Minneapolis elevators and the number of bushels of the same grade which was shipped out of the same elevators. The tables showed the figures for a two-year period, beginning September 1, 1910, and ending August 31, 1912.

The fact that the Minneapolis elevators received 15,571,515 bushels of No. 1 Northern wheat during those two years and shipped out in the same period 13,978,777 and had on hand 114,353 bushels, making a total of 20,993,130 bushels, was brought out. As a result of the privilege of mixing the elevators had gained 4,521,555 bushels of No. 1 Northern wheat from the lower grades of wheat purchased from the farmers.

The table of figures relating to the receipt and shipment of the various grades tell the whole story of the results of the mixing privilege. The same condition is found when the figures on No. 2 Northern are presented, even though the grain in this grade is not so large. During the two year period the Minneapolis elevators received 20,414,554 bushels of No. 2. On August 31, 1912, they had shipped out 22,242,410 bushels and still had on hand 51,648 bushels, making a total of 22,294,058 bushels, or a gain of 1,880,510 bushels.

When the tables on No. 3, No. 4, "rejected" and "no grade" wheat were explained it was easily shown where the grain in No. 1 and No. 2 came from. In the last four instances there was a loss in the elevators. There were 9,777,631 bushels of No. 3 received during the two years. The shipments amounted to 7,664,232 and on August 31, 1912 the elevators had on hand 140,624 bushels. The total of No. 3 wheat, either shipped or on hand, was 7,804,856 bushels. There was a loss in No. 3 grade of 1,972,175 bushels.

In No. 4 grade the elevators received 2,812,653 bushels and shipped out 624,433 bushels. The loss in this grade was 2,188,220 bushels.

The "rejected" wheat tables showed the same condition. In this case there were 1,175,513 bushels received and 621,773 bushels shipped out, making a loss of 553,740 bushels.

But it was in the "no grade" class where the largest loss appeared. Here 4,995,565 bushels were received. At the end of the two year period 1,000,945 bushels had been shipped and there was on hand 249,393 bushels, making a total of shipped and on hand of 1,250,338 bushels and leaving 3,445,227 bushels entirely unaccounted for.

Cases of individually owned elevators were also cited to the senate committee. One of these had received 215,142 bushels of No. 4 wheat and at the end of the two year period had not shipped out one bushel of this grade and did not have one bushel on hand. In other words, every bushel of this grade, the grade for which the farmer was paid, was mixed and came out in the No. 1 and No. 2 Northern grades, the grade for which the elevator owner sold it.

The elevator men who have testified before the senate committee and the house committee have argued that the grain which they make by being allowed to mix is largely offset in the cost of the mixing process. This fact is vigorously disputed by James A. Mahan, counsel for the house committee, recently elected congressman-at-large for the state of Minnesota. Mr. Mahan's contention is that the farmer is the loser by many millions every year under the present system.

"When the elevator companies buy the wheat they give the farmers the prices prevailing that day for No. 2, 3 "rejected" or "no grade" said Mr. Mahan at one of the sessions. "On that same day, these same elevator companies sell a future on No. 1 and 2 for practically that same amount. Their experience has taught them that they can mix the lower grades so as to fill the future order with No. 1 and 2. On that very day they make a profit ranging from the price they paid for the lower grades and the price for which they sell the future on No. 1 and No. 2. In my opinion this nets them a profit amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars. True it is that there is some expense in the mixing process but even so I believe that the elevator man is making an enormous profit, a profit way out of proportion."

F. W. Eva, chief of the grain inspection department, when asked regarding the relation of the system of mixing with the sample market, said: "A sample market would be of no value without the privilege of mixing. The two go hand in hand. I believe that the elevator men, having the privilege of mixing, can pay a premium for the upper level of the grade."

In another statement made before the committee Mr. Mahan said there was no doubt that the elevator companies are getting much of the profit that should be going to the farmer.

AUTOMOBILES

With the advent of 1913 many new cars are noted on the Canadian markets. Both new and old show many refinements and improvements over 1912.

McLAUGHLIN-BUICK builders have made good their claim to a country built car.

A car built for our none-to-good Canadian roads.

A car fitted with all the latest improvements.

The prices are moderate. Careful comparison is invited with the higher priced cars and especially with cheap cars whose makers base their extravagant claims of present worth on what their cars have not, instead of what they have. We also have some excellent values in rebuilt cars repainted and overhauled.

Loyalty

He may be six kinds of a liar,
He may be ten kinds of a fool;
He may be a wicked highflyer
Beyond any reason or rule.
There may be a shadow above him
Of rain and woes that impend;
And I may not respect—but I love him
Because, well, because he's my friend.

I know he has faults by the billion
But his faults are a portion of him
I know that his record's vermillion,
He's far from a sweet scaphin,
But he's always been square with
"Your's Truly."
All ready to give and to lend;
And although he be wild and unruly,
I like him, because he's my friend.

I knock him, I know; but I do it,
The same to his face as away;
And if other folks knock—well, they'll rue it.
And wish they'd had nothing to say
I never make diagrams of him,
No maps of his soul have I peined;
For I don't analyze—I just love him,
Because, well, because he's my friend.

The Onion.

The onion is a highly-scented member of the vegetable family which can be used to good advantage either as medicine or perfume. It is one of the cheapest and most lasting perfumes on the market and can be recognized without any difficulty at a distance of eighty rods.

The greatest delicacy in the line of spring vegetables is the young onion, which is picked in infancy, before it has time to grow any teeth and can therefore neither bite the tongue nor irritate the eyeballs. The young onions are eaten with utmost abandon by people who have been crowded out of the social whirl by their table manners or methods of maltreating the English language.

Onions become old but never at weak or decrepit. When an onion gets well along in years, it is sliced thin and eaten raw by epicures who are trying to forget the taste of something else. An aged, high-spirited onion eaten at the close of the meal will cause a man to regret having complained about the pie crust or other crimes committed with leafy land.

Physicians prefer to prescribe the deep-chested Bermuda onion for medicinal purposes, as it can scent a microbe before it gets anywhere near it. Some people who are full of modern microbes and ancient prejudices prefer to go around in the company of deadly germs rather than eat three large white onions a day, when they could be cured without inconveniencing anybody but those who live in the same block. The raw onion makes a fine poultice as it has a draught-like hot-blast stove in a high wind.

The boiled onion is another fragrant bon-bon which sweetens home life and inserts its languorous presence in the guest chamber. In order to boil an onion successfully it shall first be killed and buried in wood-ashes for three months, then it shall be cooked with the front and back doors open. When father returns home for dinner, the boiled onion will run out to meet him two blocks down the street, and remind him of an engagement to eat with some travelling man down town.

It is 2 Laff.

We e that the Simplified Speling Bord, whatever that is, has ishud another report, once more staggering humanity. The authorities who compose this bord have kikt the hatch out of "chaos" leaving caos, wich we wud say is a litt more caotic than ever before. There are evidences that the bord is in simpathy with the kapitalists, for the e is dropt out of money, which in these times doesn't go very far with all its letters in. O, it is 2 laff! Mayor Mike Brown, of Namaka, during the past week has disposed of two carloads of bogs at Gleichen to the Pacific Cold Storage Co. at $7.50 per hundred live weight. The mayor states Namaka is holding its own and that many of the farmers are now raising hogs on quite an extensive scale. He is hopeful of a good season for the town and district.

With measured footsteps he approached. Pita-pat, beat her heart. Would he guess, or would—

NEW STRENGTH IN THE SPRING*Nature Needs Aid in Making New Health-giving Blood.

In the spring the system needs a tonic. To be healthy you must have new blood just as the trees must have new sap to renew their vitality. Nature demands it, and without this new blood you will feel weak and languid. You may have twinges of rheumatism or the sharp, stabbing pains of neuralgia. Often there are disgusting pimples or eruptions on the skin. In other cases there is merely a feeling of tiredness and a variable appetite. Any of these are signs that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has lessened your vitality. What you need in spring is a tonic medicine to put you right, and in all the world of medicine there is no tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills actually make new, rich, red blood—your greatest need in spring. This new blood drives out the seeds of disease and makes easily tired men, women and children bright, active and strong.

Mr. John Walfield, La Have Islands, N.S., writes: "I take a great pleasure in telling what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. I am a fisherman and fifteen years ago through hard work my system became run down and I could scarcely work at all. I lost in weight; my blood became poor, and I was very weak. I consulted several doctors but their treatment did not help me so I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in a short time I was entirely well again. My wife and daughter also used them with benefit. We think so much of the Pills as a family medicine that we always keep them in the house."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or can be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

They had quarreled, quarreled irrevocably it seemed; and they were returning the presents—tokens of a love now dead, which made a pitiful display when leaped together on the polished surface of the table.

Then the man added to the pile a necktie, knitted and blue color. It was the last of the gifts. All was over now. For a few tense moments silence reigned supreme. Then:

Mr. Brown!
Yes, Miss Simmons?
I feel I am taking an advantage of you.

In what way?
You have given me almost countless boxes of chocolates, and dozens and dozens of theatre evenings and dinners, which I can't return. And Mr. Brown, I do want to be honest with you, and to settle my part of the transaction fairly. But there is only one way that I can see.

And what may that be? Mr. Brown's language still was strictly formal.

George, George, by giving you myself! Miss Simmons gasped, as she fell into her lover's arms.
Then they made it all up again.

WILD HORSES IN B.C.*YOUR PLOWING WILL BE DONE QUICKER, BETTER AND CHEAPER IF YOU USE COCKSHUTT ENGINE GANGS*Progeny of Horses Turned Loose on the Trail in Early Days

More than three thousand wild horses, in herds of from 30 to 100, are roaming over the hills and valleys in the Interior of British Columbia, according to a report brought to Edmonton by James Bracey, who with Gustav Hieinand, a veteran prospector and miner known throughout the bonanza gold camps, has just returned from an extended exploration tour of the coast provinces.

Indians and white prospectors and pack train freighters value these untamed animals more than high bred horses, said Mr. Bradley. They are the progeny of horses turned loose on the trail by discouraged or dying men during the famous gold rush in the Cariboo country. Thousands of the veriest tenderfeet stampeded to the new fields in the early '60s. Most of them were incompetent, and, in fact, utterly helpless in that wild country, and the horses either broke away or were abandoned when the fortune-hunters gave up on the long trail.

The horses made their feeding grounds in the vicinity of Barkerville for several years afterward and their offspring wandered northward as the bands increased. They make trails on the mountains and timbered country much after the fashion of buffalo in the early days and deer at present.

The Indians and freighters, working in the timbered districts, catch them with snares, such as are used for lynx. In most cases the animals are easily broken and they are better for the rough country than high grade horses on account of their stamina and sureness of foot on the mountain trails. We lost horses from our train from time to time and replaced them with wild animals.

Mr. Bradley reported that he and his partner covered more than 2,000 miles in the Interior in search of gold. They prospected around Port McMuray and staked several oil and mineral claims. They found galena and copper near the headwaters of the Big Smoky river. He says that important mines will be developed there during the next few years. Their search for gold was not successful.

We had no particular hardships on our trip, said Mr. Bradley. There was nothing out of the usual which men travelling in wild country are forced to endure, but we never saw a white man and very few Indians, after we left Tete Juan Cache, west of Edmonton, last June. From there we went along the Little Smoky river, making temporary camps at intervals. We returned with five pack horses.

Schoolgirl's Exhausted Nerves

Headaches, Dizzy Spells and Weakness Overcome by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Miss Gallop.

At about the age that most girls are working hardest at school studying for examinations there are important physiological changes taking place which are an additional strain on the nervous system.

Mrs. Gallop has had experience in the cases of her daughter and granddaughter, and for this reason her letter is particularly interesting to parents.

Mrs. J. A. Gallop, 125 Victoria street, St. John, N.B., whose husband is a carpenter, states: "We have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in our family for nervousness, headaches, dizziness and nervous dyspepsia, and have found them satisfactory in every particular. My daughter Beattie was going to school, and became quite run down in health. By the time she had used three boxes of this remedy her nerves were steady, her general health was excellent and she was entirely free from headaches and dizzy spells. We are more than pleased with the results of this treatment."

"More recently we used the Nerve Food for my granddaughter, who was out of school for nearly a year from nervous trouble, and noticed improvement in her condition at once."

THE FUR INDUSTRY

Fur-Bearing Animals Still Plentiful in Hinterland of Canada

Several titled society women of London and other parts of England, attracted by the high prices paid for fox pelts, are coming to Edmonton this spring to engage in fox-breeding in central and northern Alberta. They are prepared to make large investments. If the venture is successful it is likely that women, who have hitherto devoted their attention to prize dogs and horses, will engage in the new industry.

Eight black fox skins each valued at $1,500, were sold in Edmonton last week by trappers from the north country. Fifty-four thousand dollars' worth of silver fox pelts were sold last season. J. L. Cote, representing the Athabasca district in the provincial parliament, said in the course of an address the other day that the fur industry in Alberta was a matter of $1,000,000 in 1912, muskrats heading the list with $400,000. He added:

"Contrary to the general belief the fur-bearing animals in the remote districts of the province are not decreasing. The catches during the last few years and so far this season would indicate that furs are still plentiful in the hinterland. The government of Alberta is keenly interested in the development of the industry and is doing everything possible to assist those engaged in it."

Factors of the Hudson's Bay, Revillon Freres and the Northwest Trading companies, which maintain posts in the north country, report that fur-bearing animals are plentiful, but there is no indication that prices for black and silver fox pelts will be lower.

I consider MINARD'S LINIMENT

the BEST Liniment in use. I got my foot badly jammed lately. I bathed it with MINARD'S LINIMENT, and it was as well as ever next day.

Came to the Rescue

The rush of holiday-makers was enormous, and the railway was working at high pressure. But although they had enough rolling-stock to cope with the traffic, they had not enough conductors to man their trains. There was nothing for it but to appoint porters to the position of conductors until things slackened down a bit.

One train in charge of such a guard was travelling at the rate of about ten miles an hour, when it came to a stiff incline. Snorting and puffing, and at times almost coming to a standstill, the engine managed to draw the train to the top.

Had a hard job there, Tom shouted the driver to the conductor at the next station. I thought she wasn't going to do it.

So did I, replied Tom. I do believe if I hadn't had the brake hard on all the way up, she would have run back again.

Mr. Toogood—I went under an operation yesterday.

Mr. Markwell—You surprise me. Was it very serious?

Mr. Toogood—I had a growth removed from my head.

Mr. Markwell—My goodness! And here you are about and looking well.

Mr. Toogood—Oh, don't fret, old sport; I only had my hair cut.

DAME MAYER TELLS HOW SHE FOUND A CURE IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Suffered for Three Years From Rheumatism, Headache, Palpitation, and Bright's Disease—Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Her Kidney's and Made Her Well.

Huberdeau, Argenteuil Co., Que. (Special).—"I am always glad to tell of my cure because I sympathize with others who may be suffering as I did." So says Dame Joseph Mayer, well known and highly respected here. "For three years I was a very sick woman. Rheumatism, headache, palpitation of the heart and Bright's disease were my succession of troubles, but Dodd's Kidney Pills cured them all. I used twenty-four boxes to complete my cure, but they certainly made me well."

"I will never be without Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured Dame Mayer's illness because they are all caused by diseased kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure diseased kidneys, and with cured kidneys straining the seeds of disease out of the blood, the rheumatism, Bright's disease, headache, and palpitation of the heart are bound to disappear."

You never heard of a case of kidney disease that Dodd's Kidney Pills would not cure.

Mullins was quite bald, with the exception of a single lock which he combed carefully over the side of his head. A short time ago some young ladies asked him for his photograph, and having a peculiar sense of humor he had a picture taken of the top of his head. About a week afterwards he went past the photographer's shop and noticed an immense crowd studying a picture in the window.

He looked and found that the discourteous artist had printed a greatly enlarged picture of his bald head, with the single lock running around the edge; and labeled it:

Fire Hose
A certain large engineering firm lately received an order in Russian, and although the receiver of it had a fair knowledge of the language, there were two words he was unable to translate. Somewhere in the works, however, a real Russian was employed. They brought him along, and he read the letter carefully, but was still puzzled by these two words.

Literally, he explained, their meaning was 'hot stockings,' which seemed absurd, but was presently seen to be the nearest-known Russian synonym for fire hose.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

R. S. Higgins, who has been manager of the Gleichen branch of the Imperial Elevator Co., for the past two years, left Monday to take a similar position for the company at Swift Current, Sask. His family will remain in Gleichen for some time.

McLeod Bros. have started the erection of a new garage on Fourth Ave., just north of the Rowe, Rowe & Rowe Block. It is only three years since McLeod Bros. opened business in Gleichen and many wondered what they expected to do here, but now they find their quarters on Gleichen Street too small to accommodate their ever expanding business, which they have built up by prompt, careful and courteous attention. The new building is 40 by 50 feet and by using the two buildings hope to meet the requirements of the town this year but expect that another will require even larger premises.

The farmers of Queenstown are now once more able to reach Cluny and Gleichen, as the ferry across the Bow river above the South camp mission was put into commission on Saturday night. There was much trouble with the ferry last fall, yet it was believed that the hull was good and only a new covering was required, but when an attempt was made to pull off the old covering it was found the hull was in poor condition and an entire new ferry boat had to be built. To get material for the boat on the ground and build proved slow work and much delay was caused.

The Queenstown Farmers Union will hold a meeting on May 17th at the Pioneer School.

Arguing with a woman is like going into a shower bath with an umbrella. What good does it do?

S. A. Hall has had installed in his store what is known as the commercial system of account keeping. The cabinet in which the system is contained is a handsome addition to the store furniture and the staff are ready and pleased to answer any inquiries concerning it.

Ben Wishart has resigned his position at the Namaka farm and accepted another at the Gleichen Hotel. With his wife and family he will make this his future home.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph George David Desjardine are happy in the arrival of a boy at their ranch north of Gleichen on April 30th.

Miss Cox returned Tuesday from a trip to England and will make her future home with Canon Stocken, her brother-in-law.

Joseph McFarlane, the popular clerk in the Gleichen Trading Co. was the happiest man in town Tuesday, when Rev. E. Clark united him in the bonds of holy matrimony to Miss Renolds, who arrived recently from Ireland. The happy young couple left that afternoon to spend their honeymoon at Banff and western points mid showers of rice, shoes, etc. Joe's many friends will join in extending hearty congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. McFarlane.

Chief Roberts is now making good use of the hobby arriving in Gleichen. Last week he took in five and a half million money Justice Vigor gave them five days at hard work and the chief put them to work hauling up and filling in Crossfoot lane. It was really surprising the old tin cans the chief had the men pick up in the back alleyways, which he had covered with earth. The chief is keeping a watchful eye for a few more and in time will no doubt materially aid in making this "a city beautiful."

Manager O. G. Colquhoun, of the Circle Farm at Queenstown spent a day in Gleichen last week, when seen by a reporter he said that on the home farm he had seeded 310 acres of wheat, 120 of oats, 50 of barley and was preparing to put in 50 acres for green feed. He was not sure of the seeding on the other leased sections of the farm, excepting that he knew that Ed. McCullum had in 300 acres of wheat and 100 acres of oats. Mr. Colquhoun said that as the first hard work of the season was over and the ferry in operation the hauling of last year's crop of flax to the Gleichen elevator would now be continued.
